

Browser Comparisons

This site was built, coded, and tested utilizing Google Chrome. Everything looks and works as planned/coded. I tested this site on both Microsoft Edge and Mozilla Firefox and have listed the comparisons below.

Microsoft Edge:

The colors, coding, fonts, and links all work as expected when compared to the Chrome browser. The form on the contact page behaved identically to the Chrome browser as well. So all in all, it was pretty much the same.

The only difference I noticed had to do with the background. I'm not sure why, but the background didn't look like it filled correctly, and a line is visible where the pattern had to repeat itself.

Mozilla Firefox:

I had high hopes for this website after testing in Edge, but man, this site was broken for Firefox. It looks like the spacing for my images/sections got all messed up and I had major overlap occurring with images and text.

Despite it looking like a mess, the colors, links, fonts, and form all worked as expected though.
